October 14, 2010

VALPARAISO, Ind. – The Pro Fuel Dragster team of Dave Hill will be continuing their 2010 season this weekend at Virginia Motorsports Park for the IHRA Nitro Jam World Finals. The Valparaiso, Indiana-based team is in their third season racing A/Fuel Dragster/Pro Fuel.

One of the team's highlights happened at the Summit Motorsports Park in 2009. "We were at Norwalk for an NHRA divisional race. We didn't make it to the track for the Friday night session, so we had to wait for the Saturday sessions. The first was rained out, so we had one chance to make a 14 car field. We were the first car down the track and it ran 5.58 at 262 mph, good enough to qualify us in the 6th spot. It was such a relief to get in the show," said Hill.

After their last race, the team had time to improve their set-up, with the help of a few individuals. "I'd like to thank Top Fuel driver Terry McMillen and Tony and Robin Samsel for giving us a lot of help and tips. Thanks to them, we're expecting career best numbers this weekend," beamed Dave.

Dave would also like to thank his wife, Norma, and his crew, including crew chief and chassis builder Ben Ameling, Brian Zoborosky, Bob Binversie, and Shane Binversie for getting the car to the track and for taking the time out of their schedule. The team is sponsored by Hoosier Machinery Solutions (www.hoosiermachinery.com) and Ameling's Sound, Speed and Graphics.
